

WEEKLY CHAMPION.

SATURDAY, APRIL 18, 1885.

This paper is kept on file at E. C. Dale's Advertising Agency, 65 Merchants' Exchange, San Francisco, Cal., where contracts for advertising can be made for it.

THE CHAMPION HAS A CIRCULATION ALONG THE LINE OF THE A. & P. ROAD DOUBLE THAT OF ANY OTHER PAPER IN ARIZONA.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Six experienced sheep shearers are wanted by Gentry & Johnson, at Hackberry. See advertisement.

A horse was stolen in Flagstaff last night, belonging to a Mexican, and the thief is supposed to be a Mexican. Parties are out, but no arrests have yet been made.

The Ayer Mill Company has a contract for furnishing lumber and timbers for the building of the railroad from Daggett to Colton, in California.

J. P. Whitney and wife, of Philadelphia, and A. P. Young, of Hartford, arrived in town to-day, and paid a visit to the Cliff Dwellers. They were much pleased with the scenery.

Art. Watson, book keeper at Ayer's Mill, has gone on a visit to Chicago. He will be absent about four weeks, and his many friends will wish him a pleasant visit among old friends at home, and a safe return.

Messrs. Trundy & Mariah have opened a first-class saloon on Railroad Avenue, at the corner leading to mill town. They keep a large supply of liquors and cigars, are gentlemen who understand their business, and we hope to see them get their share of the patronage.

J. W. Wainwright, brother of one of the stockholders in the Arizona Cattle Company, who has been sojourning at Fort Maroni for the past few months, has gone to St. Louis, his old home. We hope to see him in our midst again, where he has made many lasting friends.

Mr. Ernest Meyers, of the firm of Lounthal & Meyers, of Albuquerque, successors to Santiago Baca, liquor merchants, has been in town this week. The house enjoys an extensive trade along the line of the A. & P., which Mr. Meyers has built up during the past few years.

The Saturday evening party, given by Mrs. Sam Black, at their residence, was a very enjoyable affair. The young people danced until 12 o'clock, when lunch was served, and all returned to their homes with showers of thanks on their lips for Mr. and Mrs. Sam Black, who had so elegantly entertained them.

Mr. W. M. Grove, who for a long time past, has been keeping a hotel and lodging house at Jerome, has leased the Flagstaff Hotel, and will take possession on the 1st of next month. We are glad to know of this, as Mr. Grove has a wife and two interesting daughters to add to Flagstaff society. Mr. Grove is an experienced hotel man, and will make a very popular landlord.

General and Mrs. Crook, accompanied by Mrs. Holmes, passed through Flagstaff Sunday morning. Mrs. Crook and Mrs. Holmes are on their way east, and the General only accompanied the ladies to Holbrook, and returned West the same evening. Mrs. Crook will spend the summer at Oakland, Maryland, and Mrs. Holmes will return to Prescott in time for the next term of court.

J. R. Starr has taken hold of the old White House saloon, in Flagstaff, which is now called the Frisco. Mr. Starr is well known in this community as the Soda Water Works man, which establishment he still presides over. Prompt and reliable business man, the Frisco Saloon, under his guidance will grow popular. The Frisco has the only billiard table in town. He has our best wishes for his success.

Out of seventeen subscribers in Flagstaff who have never yet paid a cent for their paper, but one came in after the notice in the CHAMPION last week, and paid. Others who have paid for three, six months and one year, have so far forgot to leave their change on the counter. Gentlemen, you must remember that the printer can't live on air, and bear in mind that the CHAMPION has been published in Flagstaff since one year ago last February.

P. B. Brannen & Co. have been putting in an unusually large stock of goods this spring, and it really does one's eyes good to feast upon the display. The largest stock of hats of the very latest styles, ever brought in to Northern Arizona can now be seen at this establishment. Just look at their mammoth stock of goods, and Pete says he can undersell any house on the line of the A. & P.

HYMENEAL.

Poets of the Marriage Bell in Flagstaff—The Nuptials Between Sam S. King and Miss Sadie Hawks.

On Tuesday afternoon last, one of those joyous occasions which make two souls happy, and causes numerous friends to rejoice, occurred in the usually quiet town of Flagstaff, when two of our most honored and esteemed members of society, Mr. Sam S. King, bookkeeper for P. B. Brannen & Co., and Miss Sadie Hawks, daughter of J. F. Hawks, were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony by Rev. Father E. V. Labretton, of Prescott. Old Sol, the "presiding" illuminator of the earth, shone forth in all his brilliancy, bidding welcome to the marriage bells, and the residence of the bride's father, where the ceremony took place, was a scene of gayety and inviting mirth. At the appointed hour, Dr. D. J. Brannen appeared as groomsmen and staid old bachelor as he is, possessed that becoming confidence which gave evidence that he would not falter, even were he at the altar to receive the marriage contract for himself. Miss Mary Hawks, sister of the bride, arrayed in a neat and tasty costume, acted as bridesmaid. Rev. Father Labretton performed the solemn service, amid the most profound silence of the few immediate relatives and friends present, and even Peter J. Brannen winced silently as the words were pronounced by the holy man, knowing that he, perhaps in the near future, would have to experience the same "line of battle."

The ceremony over, the wedding party sat down to a dinner prepared for the occasion by Mr. Hawks, father of the bride, in his own inimitable style, a repast that was most heartily enjoyed by all those participating. At the conclusion of the wedding festival, the couple went to their own residence, which had been put in readiness for their reception, and during the evening many friends called upon them to extend their congratulations.

Sam S. King, is now, more than ever, if possible, a fixture in Flagstaff. One of those reliable men who for upwards of two years has been with P. B. Brannen & Co., as their bookkeeper, enjoying the confidence and esteem of his employers and the numerous patrons of the house, he marches forth a Benedict with the best wishes of a large circle of friends. The bride is one of the bright members of the social circle of our town, and just in the bloom of womanhood, launches out on the sea of life with the best wishes of a host of personal and warm admirers. The wedding presents were numerous, valuable and of a useful nature. It is the wish of the CHAMPION that the happy pair may glide down the tide without trouble or disappointment. Bon voyage, Sam and Sadie.

ASH FORK SQUIBS.

ANOTHER GRAND BALL.

Another grand ball at Marshall's hall, came off on Wednesday evening and was a complete success in every way it implies. The dancing lasted until the god of day wooed the breezy morn.

The denizens of Rotton Row were out in full force. They occupied a familiar position at the bar, and their cute remarks caused so much laughter that it was with difficulty the ball proceeded.

"Pa pa, mama wants to see you," said a little boy to Johnny Feeley, who was just commencing a new set at the dance, but "mama" had to wait.

Much credit is due Sam White and Miss McDonald for the success of the dance.

George Prouty's marriage guide is his inseparable companion. Good scheme, George, be prepared for any emergency.

Will Furrows was there, and so was his feet. "Oh my."

"Yes, it is pretty, but I am going to have a silk if it busts the Atlantic & Pacific Railroad Company, and don't you forget it."

Dr. Bishop took care of the babies while their mothers enjoyed themselves.

Mrs. M. V. Marshall, the hostess of the occasion, filled the position with a grace that a queen might envy.

Some gentlemen from the "fresh" fraternity, were overdue familiar when swinging some of the ladies in the dance. They should be met with prompt repulse on such attempts.

EL MAHDI.

Under an amendment to the election laws of the Territory of Arizona, passed by the 13th legislative assembly, no whiskey is allowed to be sold on election day. This restriction on saloon keepers, we understand, is an exact copy of the laws of California in this regard. It works well there, and we don't see any reason why it shouldn't work well in this territory.

SEATING CARNIVAL.

The Bal Masque on Rollers.

On Friday evening last, at the Flagstaff skating rink, one of the grandest carnivals of the season, took place, which was largely participated in by our citizens. At an early hour in the evening the masquerade "on wheels" made their appearance in the spacious apartment, and a more merry and gay assemblage never gathered together in Flagstaff. The different characters represented gave a varied and most comical appearance to the assembled throng, and the spectators, of which there were large numbers, enjoyed the scene. We noticed among others, the following ladies and gentlemen among the masquerades:

Mr. and Jennie Beal represented the fantoms, a very neat attire, and Jennie Beal wore a very rich riding dress.

Cora Marshall wore a plain white dress.

Mrs. A. A. Dutton represented the CHAMPION. This lady, outwardly clad in the ministerial robes of this widely circulated journal, of course was the centre of attraction. We extend thanks to Mrs. Dutton for her thoughtfulness in paying respects to the newspaper of the town, as no one about our office thought of representing us. We owe the lady one for the remembrance, and the time may come when we can repay.

Mrs. C. A. Greenlaw appeared in the costume of a Sister of Charity, and was highly complimented.

Susie Taylor and Mary Black were arrayed in a costume probably representing the Twin Sisters, and while naturally gay, the two ladies won hosts of admirers.

Jesse Black represented the Chinaman, and while it is said the "Chinaman must go," the way Jesse went around the rink on rollers, one would think the Burlingame treaty with China, was a thing of the past.

Jim Black represented a frisky female, probably in search of a husband. He was just too nice to put your hands on, under a masquerade, but when that mustache came to light, the female beauty disappeared. Bain Black was the female primrose of the evening, while George Black represented the Dude, like one to the man or born.

Mr. H. W. Clarkson wore a fine plush suit, representing an Irish Lord, a regular skating rink attire, which was very becoming. He is a graceful skater, his movements are easy, and is always admired on the rollers.

Jas. O'Neil was arrayed in a linen costume, and being tall and slim, only lacked a high silk hat to make him the very picture of a book monger.

Elmer Hoxworth, represented the fair young lady. A graceful skater, a miniature statue, he was a real neat little lady.

John Foran was the "washwoman" and was most thoroughly disguised.

Ralph Cameron was a down-east Yankee, apparently fresh from the nutmeg state, but he wants his character termed the "Town Fool."

Frank Rumsey made a very correct personation of the clown.

E. V. Griffin was the fat man and were it his natural state, he undoubtedly would be the first alderman of Flagstaff. His "bay window" was immense.

Niles Cameron did the female act to a charm.

Ed. Hicklin represented the school girl, bashful or not, as the spectators might determine. Ed. looms up hugely in female attire, and being a swift skater with well rounded limbs, he represented the character well.

Mr. Bidinger wore a white Mother Hubbard, and floated his "bannor to the breeze" with grace and elegance.

T. E. Cary wore a suit of tights in red, representing the "evil one." He also had a "front" on him.

George Loucks was the grim old Dutchman, a regular old Gambrius. Jim Lamport was the Dutch butcher, who sustained his character very creditably.

The carnival was a very successful entertainment, and we hope soon to see another of the kind at the rink.

FLAGSTAFF LAGER BEER.

The Flagstaff Brewing Company is deserving the patronage of the people of Northern Arizona. They are now turning out bottled beer far superior to that manufactured at Albuquerque. Made of pure spring water, and by the most skillful hand, it is daily taking the place of all other brands on the line of the A. & P. road, and will soon be known far and wide. The mountain air and pure water tempers the liquid until it is delicious to taste, and Flagstaff lager will be the leading beverage during the coming season. We ask the saloon men along the line of the railroad to try a few bottles.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

Capt. John Ayers, who came to New Mexico with the California Volunteers in early days, and for a time was in command of Fort Marcy there, publishes a two-column article in the Santa Fe Review, stating that he has discovered the original warm mineral springs which the Aztecs filled up and hid at the time of the Spanish invasion, March 10th, 1680. The springs are about four miles from Santa Fe, and the analyses of their waters as returned by Dr. Huntington, curator of the medical museum of the U. S. Army, at Washington, D. C., indicate the presence of many health-giving properties and are fully equal to the many celebrated springs in Germany. The announcement of the discovery creates profound excitement in Santa Fe, and hundreds are preparing to visit the springs. A company will be formed to improve the springs and bring them into notice as a health resort.

NEW CATTLE COMPANY.

The Prairie Cattle Company, a new organization composed of capitalists in the east, are now negotiating in Arizona for lands. They are talking of buying, among others, the Phillip Hull range, including Hull's ranch, and will bring here 10,000 head of stock.

The Flagstaff Literary Society organized on Thursday evening last, by electing Dr. Hendricks President, Geo. D. Miller, Vice President, and Mrs. T. G. Norris, Secretary and ex-officio Treasurer. The society starts off buoyant with hope and encouragement, and it is to be hoped our citizens will attend the meetings and lend their aid to the prosperity of the organization. Next Wednesday evening there will be exercises at Hill's Hall, and everybody is invited.

The work of repairing the boilers at the Ayer mill, is progressing as rapid as possible. At the farthest, the mill will commence running by the 15th of next month.

Doc Davis will run a new meat shop in P. B. Brannen & Co's ware house, a partition of the spacious room being divided off for that purpose. Davis is an A. 1 butcher.

Mrs. JAMES A. GARFIELD denies that she is engaged to marry and characterizes the report as cruel to charge her with being untrue to the memory of her late husband.

The area seeded to grain in this valley the present season is about equal to that of last year, but there is a greater amount of barley and less of wheat growing. The present outlook for crops is splendid—Phoenix Gazette.

There is a law on our statute books that should be strictly enforced; to prevent the sale or giving of liquors to miners. It is understood that the authorities have determined that any one found guilty of the offense in the future shall be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.
